TSU Fight Song

Here's to the school we love
We are Trojans, one and all
We will always cheer for victory and you'll never let us fall
GO! GO! GO!

Cheers to old Troy State
We are with you all the way
So get out there team and FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT!
And win today!

Troy State University

Alma Mater

Our vows of love, our vows of faith,
Dear school, we've said to thee:
Each strong man, each gentle maid
Will eve loyal be.
Not for a day, not for a year
Shall we each other greet
As fellow students, fellow friends,
But till in Heaven we meet.

So hail, Alma Mater,
Dear School, we all love thee.
So hail, Alma Mater,
We'll aye be true to thee.

So when in days that are to come
Fond memories we recall.
The memories of Troy State
We'll cherish most of all.
Your stately portals, spacious halls
In dreams we will enjoy,
And hearts again will sadly yearn
For you, and days at Troy.

Anything But Ordinary

Troy State University

Troy State University traces its origin to February 26, 1887, when it was established as the Troy Normal School by an act of the Alabama Legislature. The School grew steadily, becoming the Troy State Teachers College in 1929 and Troy State College in 1957 before being named Troy State University in 1967. Located in Troy in the Wiregrass region of southeast Alabama, Troy State University is the main campus of the Troy State University System, which also consists of a branch campus in Phenix City; University College, which offers degree programs at more than 50 military installations and metropolitan locations throughout the United States and the world; and two other independently accredited universities, Troy State University Dothan and Troy State University Montgomery.

The System serves nearly 18,000 students worldwide, including more than 5,000 at the main campus. TSU offers its students an array of academic programs - some 70 majors, more than 30 minors and 10 pre-professional areas of study - in small-class settings. Students pursue degrees at the bachelor's, master's and education specialist levels.

TSU offers its students an array of athletic, philanthropic and social opportunities. The university fields athletic teams in seven men's and seven women's sports, and students participate in dozens of service and professional organizations, honor societies, and social fraternities and sororities.

Life on campus

On a day-to-day basis, there is always something going on at Troy State University. Weeknights and weekends, TROJANS found ways to have fun on campus and around town.

Life outside of class --part entertainment, part education-- completed the college experience.

New Beginnings

TSU makes an IMPACT

Impact is the time during the summer when hundreds of incoming freshmen, and even a few transfer students, flock to Troy State. From late May to early August, new students have the opportunity to prepare for their first year at college. Troy State students act as the IMPACT leaders and usher the students through the campus. IMPACT leaders provide support as well as firsthand knowledge about Troy State to their specific groups.

Students are shown the dorm rooms and given a tour of the campus. For some of the new comers, this is the first time they get to see what Troy State University's beautiful campus looks like up close and personal. Paper work is passed out, class schedules are planned, and the first meal at SAGA is consumed. If the freshmen can survive that, college should be no problem at all.

LEFT: IMPACT leaders pass out information about TSU to parents during a session specifically for them to voice their questions about their child entering college.

BELOW: Incoming freshmen got the opportunity to learn more about the sororities, fraternities and other organizations on campus during the browse session of IMPACT.

My Story

The thing that I will miss most about TSU is cheering our football team on from the sidelines or at a pep rally.

Another thing that I will definately miss is traveling with the band. Riding on a bus with fifty other band members might not seem like a great time, but it is one memory that will be cherished in my opinion.

Spirit, Inc.

Pep Rallies

Every Thursday before a Troy State athletic game, the gym is packed with students aching to support their team. Fraternities show their spirit by yelling and painting themselves while sororities dance and dress up. Football players storm the floor while "The Sound of the South" blares the fight song. Nothing raises school spirit like pep rallies.

Students come together with only one care, and that's to cheer Troy State on to another victory. The blaring of students yelling "Gooooo Trojans!!" resonates through the gym as Troy State University students chant enthusiastically for their team's up-coming game. The Trojans exhibit their support for all Troy State athletics with their attendance at the pep rallies.

New Ideas

Governor Riley's tax plan

Tuesday, August 26, 2003 was a big day for Troy State University.

Alabama Governor Bob Riley came to our campus to speak to the University population about his administration's new tax plan.

Everyone in attendance was enthralled with the Rally's events. Chancellor Hawkins presented Gov.

Riley with a plaque on behalf of Troy State University in support of his tax plan. Later, the football team presented the governor with a jersey that had his last name on the back.

Before he spoke, Governor Riley removed his jacket in his signature form. During his speech he explained to the students and staff what his plan would consist of. The governor felt that many Alabamians felt this package would help mend the broken school system. The proposed tax reform plan was voted down in early September 2003, causing controversy among the school system and the tax payers.

Bring in the Noise

Battle of the Bands 2004

The second annual Battle of the Bands was an exciting show. Many students were not sure what to expect from an on-campus talent show. Those students that were skeptical quickly changed their opinions, and got much more than they bargained for. Four bands were showcased at this year's battle. The first band to perform was Right Past Nowhere which was followed by Ten and Two. The other bands competing were Second Floor and Sullivan St. The exhibition band, Sevenply, was last year's winner. Some of these bands have just formed while others have been playing together for years. These bands showed their musical talents and stage presence in true rock star fashion. Although these bands had different styles, they all had one thing in common. All of them were Troy State students. All the bands put on a great show, but it was Second Floor, from Troy, that took home the prize. Battle of the Bands is a great way for local bands to get recognition and stage time. If you missed the excitement this year, be sure to support your local talent next year.

My Story

I have been looking for a job since the beginning of the Fall semester. Finding a job this year has been the hardest thing, it seems, I have had to do. I am from a big city where jobs are easy to get. Troy is such a small town, and with so many students looking for jobs, jobs are pretty much non-existing.

Wet Sunshine

Sometimes it can be fun

As a freshman, do you remember your first rainy day experience at Troy State University? Naturally you would have had no idea of the hazardous lay out of Troy State. The rain was pouring in sheets and you remembered some of the older students telling you it would be smart to wait for it to stop. Nevertheless, you attempted to make your way from Smith Hall to Alumni Hall.

You were just crossing the street when you stepped off into a gutter. Your sandal slides off your foot, and even though you fell face first trying to get it, you watched your sandal slide down the hill and into the sewer. You walked with your head down in embarrassment and with only one shoe, but you learned one extremely valuable lesson: On Rainy Days... Just Sleep In.

A Dream

Homecoming 2003

Come True

Game day was a blast. As usual Homecoming day started bright and early with the Homecoming Parade. The Sound of the South marched and the court greeted the crowd with smiles. Fraternities, sororities, and other organizations displayed their creative skills with elaborate floats or simple showing of support for the Trojans.

Later that day students, faculty members, and alumni gathered on the quad to enjoy live music and good food. During the half-time presentation, Lynsey Williamson was crowned Troy State University's 2003 Homecoming Queen. The game came to an exciting end with the Trojans prevailing over Florida International 21-10.

There's No Place Homecoming 2003 Like Home

Homecoming is many students' favorite time of year. This year, as always, Troy State had many events planned for Trojan fans to enjoy. Skit night gave everyone the opportunity to watch their classmates make fools of themselves, to get a laugh. The new Trojan Feud was a spin-off of Family Feud that utilized Troy State statistics, follies, and the opinions of students surveyed beforehand.

Movie night allowed students to enjoy "The Italian Job" under the stars in the amphitheatre. The pep rally prepared students for the game as well as the countless hours of tailgating. The traditional Homecoming parade took place early Saturday morning. After the Homecoming Queen was crowned, and the mighty Trojans were victorious. Truly, there is no place like home!

seren it must be love dipity

While college is initially a learning environment, it can often become a place to fall in love. It is all over campus!

Students walking, hand in hand, exchanging kisses before class, and hugging tightly while reading the Palladium. Many places on campus, such as the kissing rock and the rose garden, are famous for their romantic atmosphere and have served as memorable engagement spots.

College is a natural place to find a significant other. It provides you with the opportunity to meet new people from all over the world that you would not have met any other place. With so many life choices being made, students inevitably will find someone who interests them. Whether it is forever or for tonight, Troy State University is certainly the beginning of a beautiful relationship.

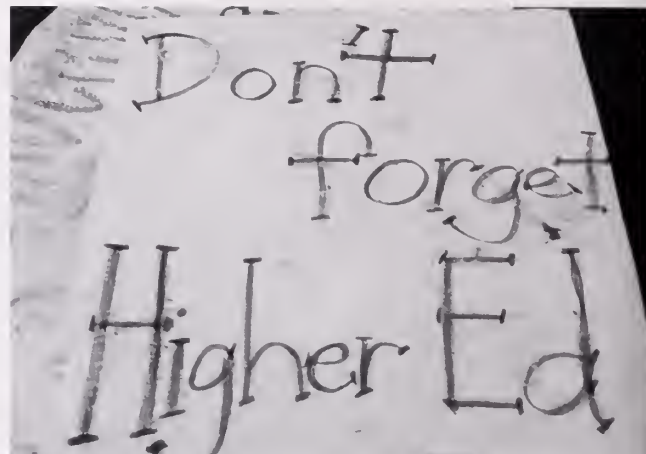

My Story

Since the quad was changed and those parking places were taken away, finding a close parking place is beyond impossible. I mean we end up with a parking ticket if we park in the wrong places, but there is not enough places where we are supposed to park.

Troy State University was one of the many universities represented by students from this state, but other states across the nation as well.

As you looked at the crowd, you could see the cardinal color worn by our students stand out. Governor Bob Riley stated that he would do the best he could to help the higher education funding problem. Only time can tell how the higher education decisions made from year to year will affect the college careers of students around the state.

Students, faculty, and local residents gathered at each of the "Save a Life" blood drives held in the Adams Center Ballrooms this year. To serve the purpose of saving a life, Troy State showed heart by pouring into the drives and donating a collection of blood. Giving blood to many of us seems to be backed with thoughts of fear. Instead, the experience of being around so many warm-hearted individuals stirs a different emotion.

Never have some seen so many people completely thrilled to be giving blood. With so many folks being so positive and excited with the idea of giving the "gift of life" to needy individuals, it can leave quite a warming mark on Troy State. Splash in Spring

Spring Break 2004

Every student across the country at some point has had that feeling.

You know that one you get when you've spent all semester studying, going to school, and working toward that much anticipated future. Just when you think you have had all you can take, you are going insane, and everything is about to come crashing down, it happens. SPRING BREAK comes to the rescue.

Ah, finally a week long break from the hustle and bustle and stress of school. For some students, it is a week for partying, or a week for working or volunteering, but for everyone it is a week of rest. The mundane routine of classes, lunch and more classes is traded in for fun, sleep, and more fun. However you chose to spend your Spring Break, I'm sure it was an unforgettable experience.

Out with the Old

Quad Construction

The construction on the quad was the beginning of a nightmare for students. This nightmare included less parking for teachers and commuters, a lot of mud, and a lot of headaches. The quad went from a nice place, with parking and trees to a big mud hole with bulldozers and dump trucks. Students in Bibb Graves, Smith Hall, and the Math and Science Complex had a difficult time concentrating on their work due to the excessive noises from the machinery outside. The workers worked day after day for over six months to get the quad like it is today with the possible nightmare coming to an end. The quad now has a beautiful fountain and several walk ways over the quad. Many students seem pleased with the results, even though they were displeased during the construction.

In with the New

Quad Dedication

This year has been an exciting time of change for Troy State University with the new construction of the Quadrangle. Just recently TSU has been committing to drastic changes on campus to hype up our university. First, the university built a strong baseball stadium that was soon followed by the renovations of Movie Gallery Stadium. Impressed with the job well done, Troy State University decided to continue the improvements with a new track and field.

This year, as TSU continues to look ahead; the new Quad was born. Although many were skeptical at first, the new Quad has proven to be an impressive centerpiece for the university. The beautiful statue and luxurious fountain was funded by the Troy State University Alumni Association. The grand opening and dedication of the quad was a huge success. Troy State University and everyone involved with the project should give themselves a pat on the back for a job well done.

ISCO Celebration

Diversity is a key element of the Troy State University community. Troy State prides itself on being a university that is culturally well-rounded. We have students of many different nationalities and ethnicities that share our campus. The International Student Cultural Organization hosts a dinner every year to celebrate everyone's unique culture. The ISCO Festival is a way for the entire campus to come together and learn about other countries and traditions.

ISCO primarily gives the international students a chance to introduce their various cultures to American students through food, dance, music, fashion and art. This year, ISCO had another great celebration. American students were given the opportunity to learn from other students' cultures while enjoying great food and entertainment. The ISCO festival is a wonderful way to meet different people and experience their cultures without leaving the country.

Fun under the Sun

Spring Fling 2004

Spring is in the air, the flowers are in bloom, birds are chirping, and the weather is steadily changing from freezing to sunny. These signs can only point to one thing. Troy State students know it is time for Spring Fling. Spring Fling is an annual day of fun sponsored by the University Activities Council.

This is a day designated to give TSU students and faculty a much needed break from the everyday routine of classes and school work they have grown accustomed to.

This year's Spring Fling consisted of many fun and spontaneous events that gave the campus a refreshing change of pace for a day. A rock wall was put up in front of Malone. Other activities included surveys, a pitching game, and a freethrow game. KMX provided a DJ and free goody bags and t-shirts were given away. The UAC also provided free food. The Department of Speech and Theatre presents...

This year the Department of Speech and Theatre performed a stage production of Sophocles's famous play, Antigone. There were many hours and lots of preparation poured into the production of Antigone. The backdrop itself was vivid in color and popped out to the crowd with an eye-catching appeal. The costumes, created by the cast, were well thought out and fit the scenes perfectly. The lighting for this show was also exceptionally well and created a specific mood during various parts of the performance. It is always exciting to see an old story brought back to life, and this production the department took on was no exception. The cast and everyone behind the scenes did an outstanding job. Everyone involved had lots to be proud of. The performance itself, was indeed, a huge success going even further to compete in regional competition.

Many things have happened this past year, from games to a hypnotist show. With student participation, these events became even more funny and interesting. Voting, for TSU students, is a very important part of college life. The university has held several career fairs this year. Students seemed to appreciate the chance to see what the different companies could offer to them. I have found out that living with someone that you have never met before is harder than I thought. I have never had to share a room before with anyone. Patience runs very short when things get away from normal for me.

Remember

When

Year in Review

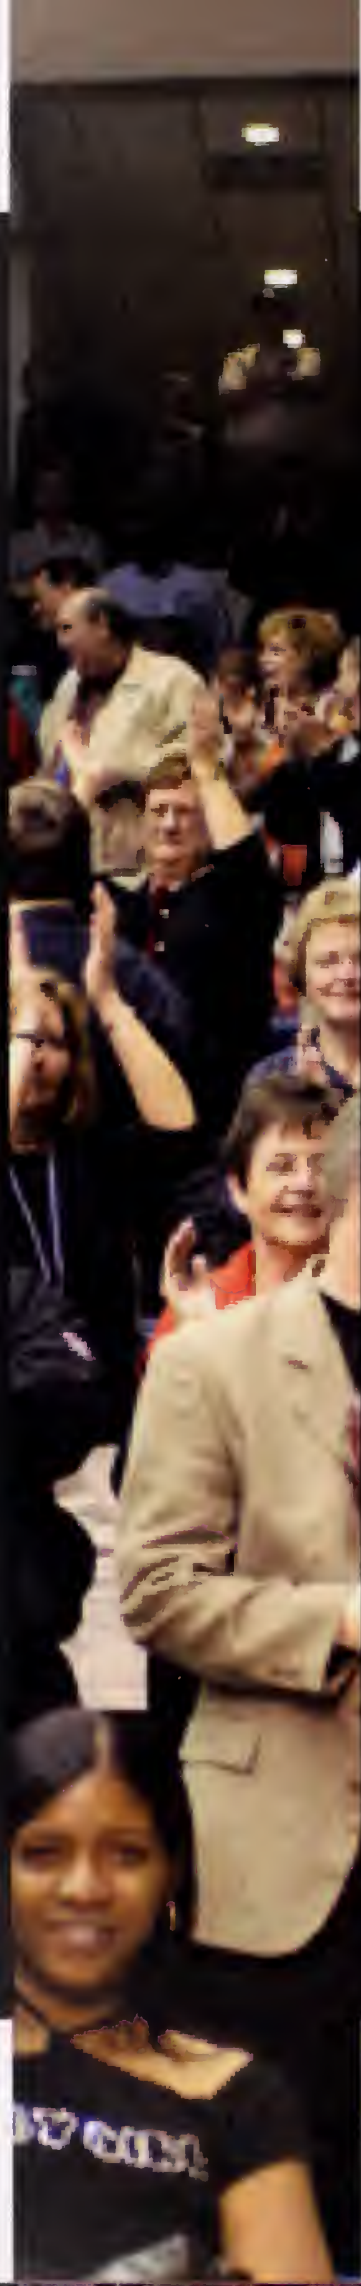

Looking back, you would remember the times where you had fun rather than the times you had to study. Intramural sports helped take some of the stress off of the students this year. From football in the fall, to softball in the spring, many students participated in the events. Not only do intramurals give you a break from the hectic life of a college student, but also contests and tournaments do too.

The open mic night at Frank's Place offered a place and time for students to showcase their abilities. Prizes were awarded to the winners. This year we had Michael Anthony come and put on a hypnotist show. The Crosby theater was packed to its limit. Student participants kept things light and funny as they performed on stage.

Daily practices, face-offs and weekend tournaments surrounded ATHLETES throughout the year.

Veterans finished their senior seasons, dreams were shattered and injuries shortened playing time, but expectations surpassed and made.

Troy State 33 Marshall 24

The Troy State Trojans met the Marshall University Thundering

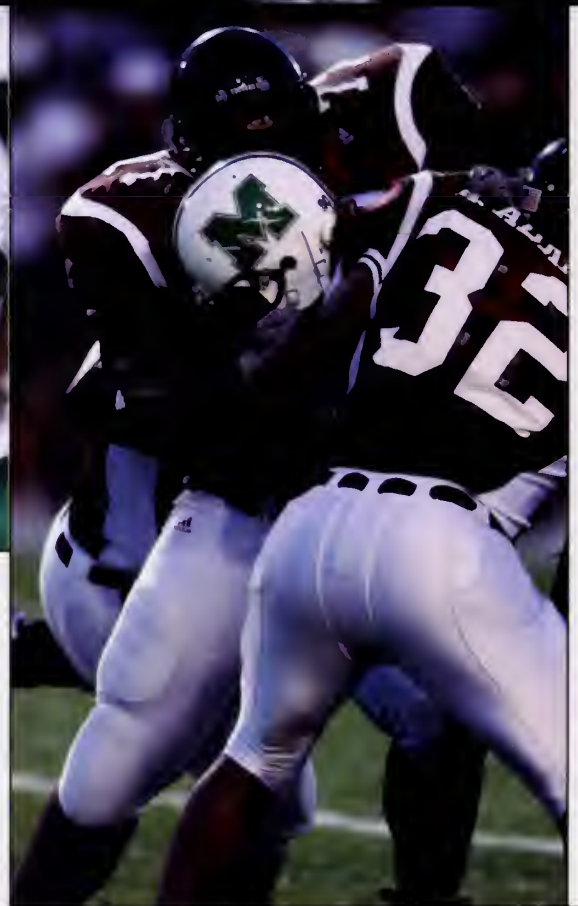

Herd for an outstanding win.

Marshall came to Troy after beating then sixth ranked Kansas State. The Herd wasn't expecting the Trojans to dominate the day. Troy State finished with over 349 total yards in offense.

The Troy State Trojans were up to the challenge both on and off the field. The stadium had a record 26,000 fans in attendance.

Trojan Homecoming

Troy State 21 Florida International 10

The Troy State Trojans increased their Homecoming winning streak in the sixth year after a hard-fought win over Florida International. Troy State pushed for 424 total yards of offense, 204 yards of that on the ground. Even more than that, the Trojans rolled up an impressive 21 first downs with 12 of those on the ground.

Serving up Success

The volleyball team shapes foundations, exceeds expectations

Five starters returned this year to give the Lady Trojans a good start. Early in the season they were ranked fourth in the A-Sun poll. They began by defending their title as Labor Day Classic champions.

Then they started the A-Sun conference with a solid win over Lipscomb. Although they ended their regular season with a loss to Samford, the Lady Trojans had high hopes for the conference championship.

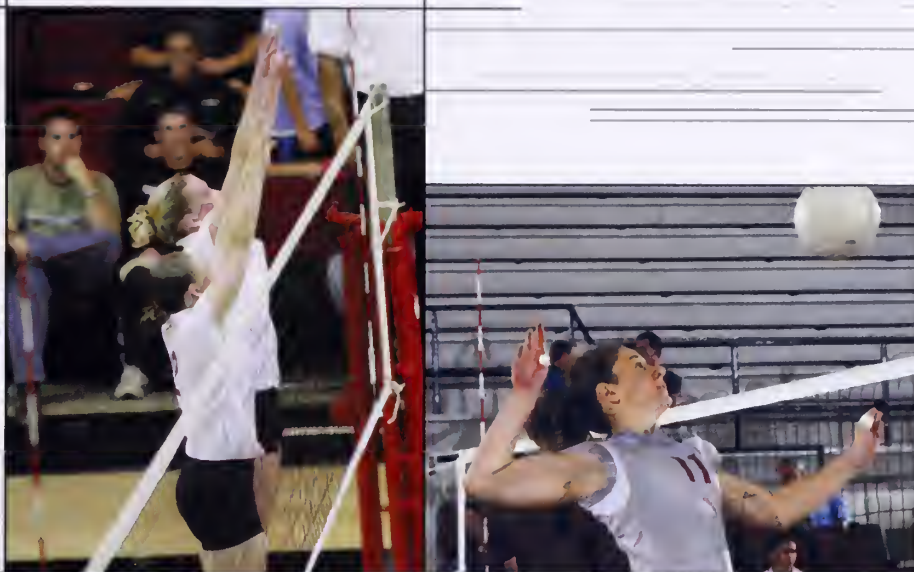

They ended the regular season 13-12, with 5-5 in the A-Sun conference.

Men's Basketball

Making History and a Slam Jam Name for Themselves

When Don Maestri took over as head coach of the Troy State basketball program in 1982, the Trojans had posted just one winning season in the previous five years. In the 21 years since, Maestri has turned the program into a perennial Division II national contender, led the program through a grueling Division I transition and has won three conference championships in the past five years. During his tenure at TSU, Maestri has gained worldwide acclaim for his scoring teams. Troy State has led the nation in scoring three times (1991, 1992 and 1996), as well as leading the nation in three-pointers four times (1992, 1994, 1995 and 1996). On January 12, 1992, Troy State became the first and only team to score 200 points in a basketball game, defeating DeVry, 258-141. TSU hit 51 3-pointers during the game, still a NCAA record. During their last six seasons in Division II, the Trojans have averaged 22 wins per season and been a constant in the national rankings.

Growing Glory

Men's Basketball Expands Their Empire to Success.

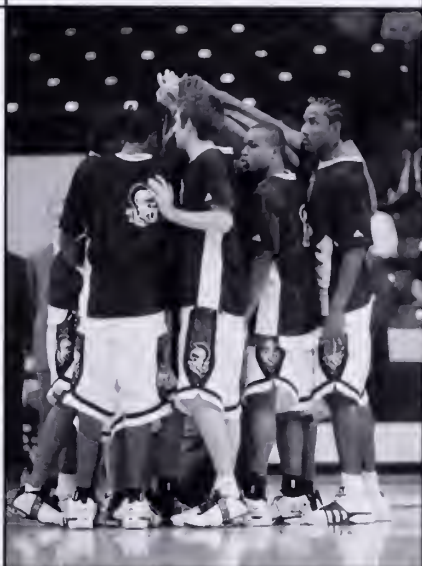

The Troy State Men's basketball team has shown tremendous effort throughout the year. Although they did not make it to the big dance they gave every game their best shot. They played with their hearts and with a lot of intensity. They finished the season with an astonishing record of 24-6, the second-best mark in TSU's Division One history. The Trojans, who were the conference regular season champions, were extended an NIT tournament bid. Though they lost in the first round of the tournament, they did have a great season.

Women's Basketball

Hauling, Balling, & Burning Up the Court

Second-year Troy State women's basketball coach Michael Murphy doesn't believe in unnecessary complication - even when it comes to the rules by which his players are expected to abide. His demands are simple: Be respectful. Be accountable. Be willing to sacrifice. Prepare to win. "Those are areas we can control," he says, "If our players work hard and apply those rules to every area of this program and their lives, the rest will take care of itself." If Murphy's past success is any indication, his philosophy can build winners. Entering his second season at Troy State, that is his mission - to lead the Lady Trojans back to the top. Murphy's association with the game of basketball has not always been limited to the sidelines. He has served as a color commentator for some game broadcasts, covering games for the Alabama Sports Network, the Alabama Cable Network and Fox Sports South.

Nothing But Net

Women's Basketball Team Lights Up The Court

The Women's basketball team had an incredible season. They were led by Coach Michael Murphy, whose simple rules are as follows: be respectful, be accountable, be willing to make sacrifices, and prepare to win. With these rules, Murphy's plan was to lead the Lady Trojans back to the top. This team showed the kind of heart and determination their coach expected. These ladies ended the season with a record of 16-12. Their hard work has certainly laid a strong foundation for a great next season.

Putting the Way to a Bright Future

The golf program at Troy State is on the way to a very successful future. With confidence and strategy the Trojans will prevail in the years to come. Swing in a New Year

Trojan Baseball has a Strong Season

The Troy State baseball program looked a little different when they took the field at the beginning of this season, as they welcomed twenty-four newcomers to the roster. Included in those twenty-four players are two Southeastern Conference transfers in pitchers Todd Nicholas (from Mississippi State University) and Landon Brazell (from the University of Alabama), sixteen junior college transfers and six freshmen. Among the newest members of the Troy State baseball team are also three former Major League Baseball draft picks in pitchers Brent Adcock and Todd Nicholas and catcher Henry Gutierrez.

The Trojans entered their first A-Sun Baseball Tournament in two seasons having already locked up their best overall record since their first season in the A-Sun in 1998. At 33-20, Troy was guaranteed to finish at least two games better than the 31-28 finish in 1999. At the A-Sun Tournament, two

Trojans earned All-A-Sun Honors:

juniors Nate Moore and Adam

Godwin were voted to the A-Sun's all-conference teams by the league's coaches during the Tournament.

A Grand Slam Season

Troy State University Softball Keeps Swinging

With over 300 wins in her first eight seasons, Troy State softball head coach Melanie Davis knows how to win. Davis doesn't know how to lose. She has never had a losing record throughout her entire collegiate softball coaching career. Davis has had the "Midas touch" since joining Troy State in 1993. Davis began her career at Troy State as both the head volleyball coach and softball coach. She has been the leader of women's athletics at Troy State since 1998 when she was named Senior Woman Administrator. Since taking over as head softball coach in 1994, she has guided the Lady Trojans to unprecedented heights, including the 1996 Mid-Continent Conference Championship and berth into the NCAA Regionals. She has won at least 34 games in every season and has guided Troy State to six seasons of 40-plus wins including a school record 52 wins in 1995.

The Girls Maintain a Strong Team with Powerful Friendships

This season, assistant coach Barbara Sherwood entered her fourth season as assistant coach for the Lady Trojans.

She is responsible for the pitchers and catchers and is the recruiting coordinator for the Trojan softball program.

Herself a four year letter winner at Troy State, Sherwood was the starting catcher for three years and was named captain all three of those years. During her career as a player, Sherwood helped lead Troy State to 176 wins, the most of any player in school history. Now, she leads on a whole other level, with no less charisma and influence.

Just One of the Guys

The Heart of a Mascot is a Die-Hard Fan

Every student at Troy State University is proud of their school and proud to call themselves a Trojan. However, you might wonder, who has the most Trojan pride on campus? The answer is T-Roy, of course. Day in and day out, rain or shine, T-Roy is at every sporting event, doing his best to pump up the crowd. He never complains, and he always smiles. He does not do it for the fame, but for the sheer joy of making everyone else show their school spirit. The identity of the person behind the mask may not be known, but the T-Roy presence is always felt. T-Roy, you are the heart of Troy State University, and for that we thank you.

Board of Trustees

In June 2000, the Board of Trustees of the Troy State University System instructed Chancellor Jack Hawkins, Jr. to develop a strategic plan for the System.

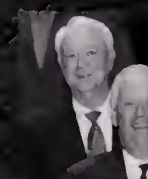

In July 2000, Dr. Hawkins launched a System-wide strategic planning process - "Coming Together as a System." This effort has involved all aspects of the System, including over 150 faculty, staff and the TSU System Board of Trustees.

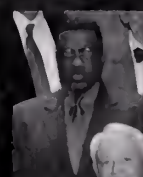

Chancellor Jack Hawkins

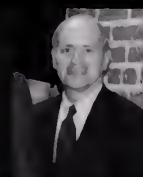

Senator Gerald O. Dial

Mr. John D. Harrison

Mr. Lamar P. Higgins

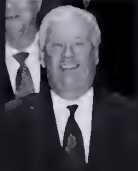

Mr. Charles Nailen

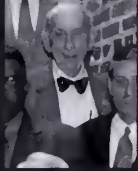

Governor Bob Riley

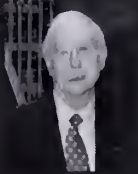

Dr. James R. Andrews

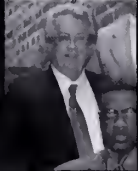

Mr. Roy Henry Drinkard

Dr. R. Douglas Hawkins

Mr. Milton McGregor

Mr. Allen Owen, III

As a result of this effort, eleven strategic initiatives have emerged that challenge the men and women of the System institutions and programs to not only come together as a system, but to become a premiere model of a higher education delivery system of the 21st century. Faculty and staff in each institution will work to complete the eleven initiatives by July 2005:

The overarching long-range vision of the Troy State University System is to be one of the premier higher education delivery networks of the 21st century. This is a significant undertaking, but there is a clear precedent for bold thinking.

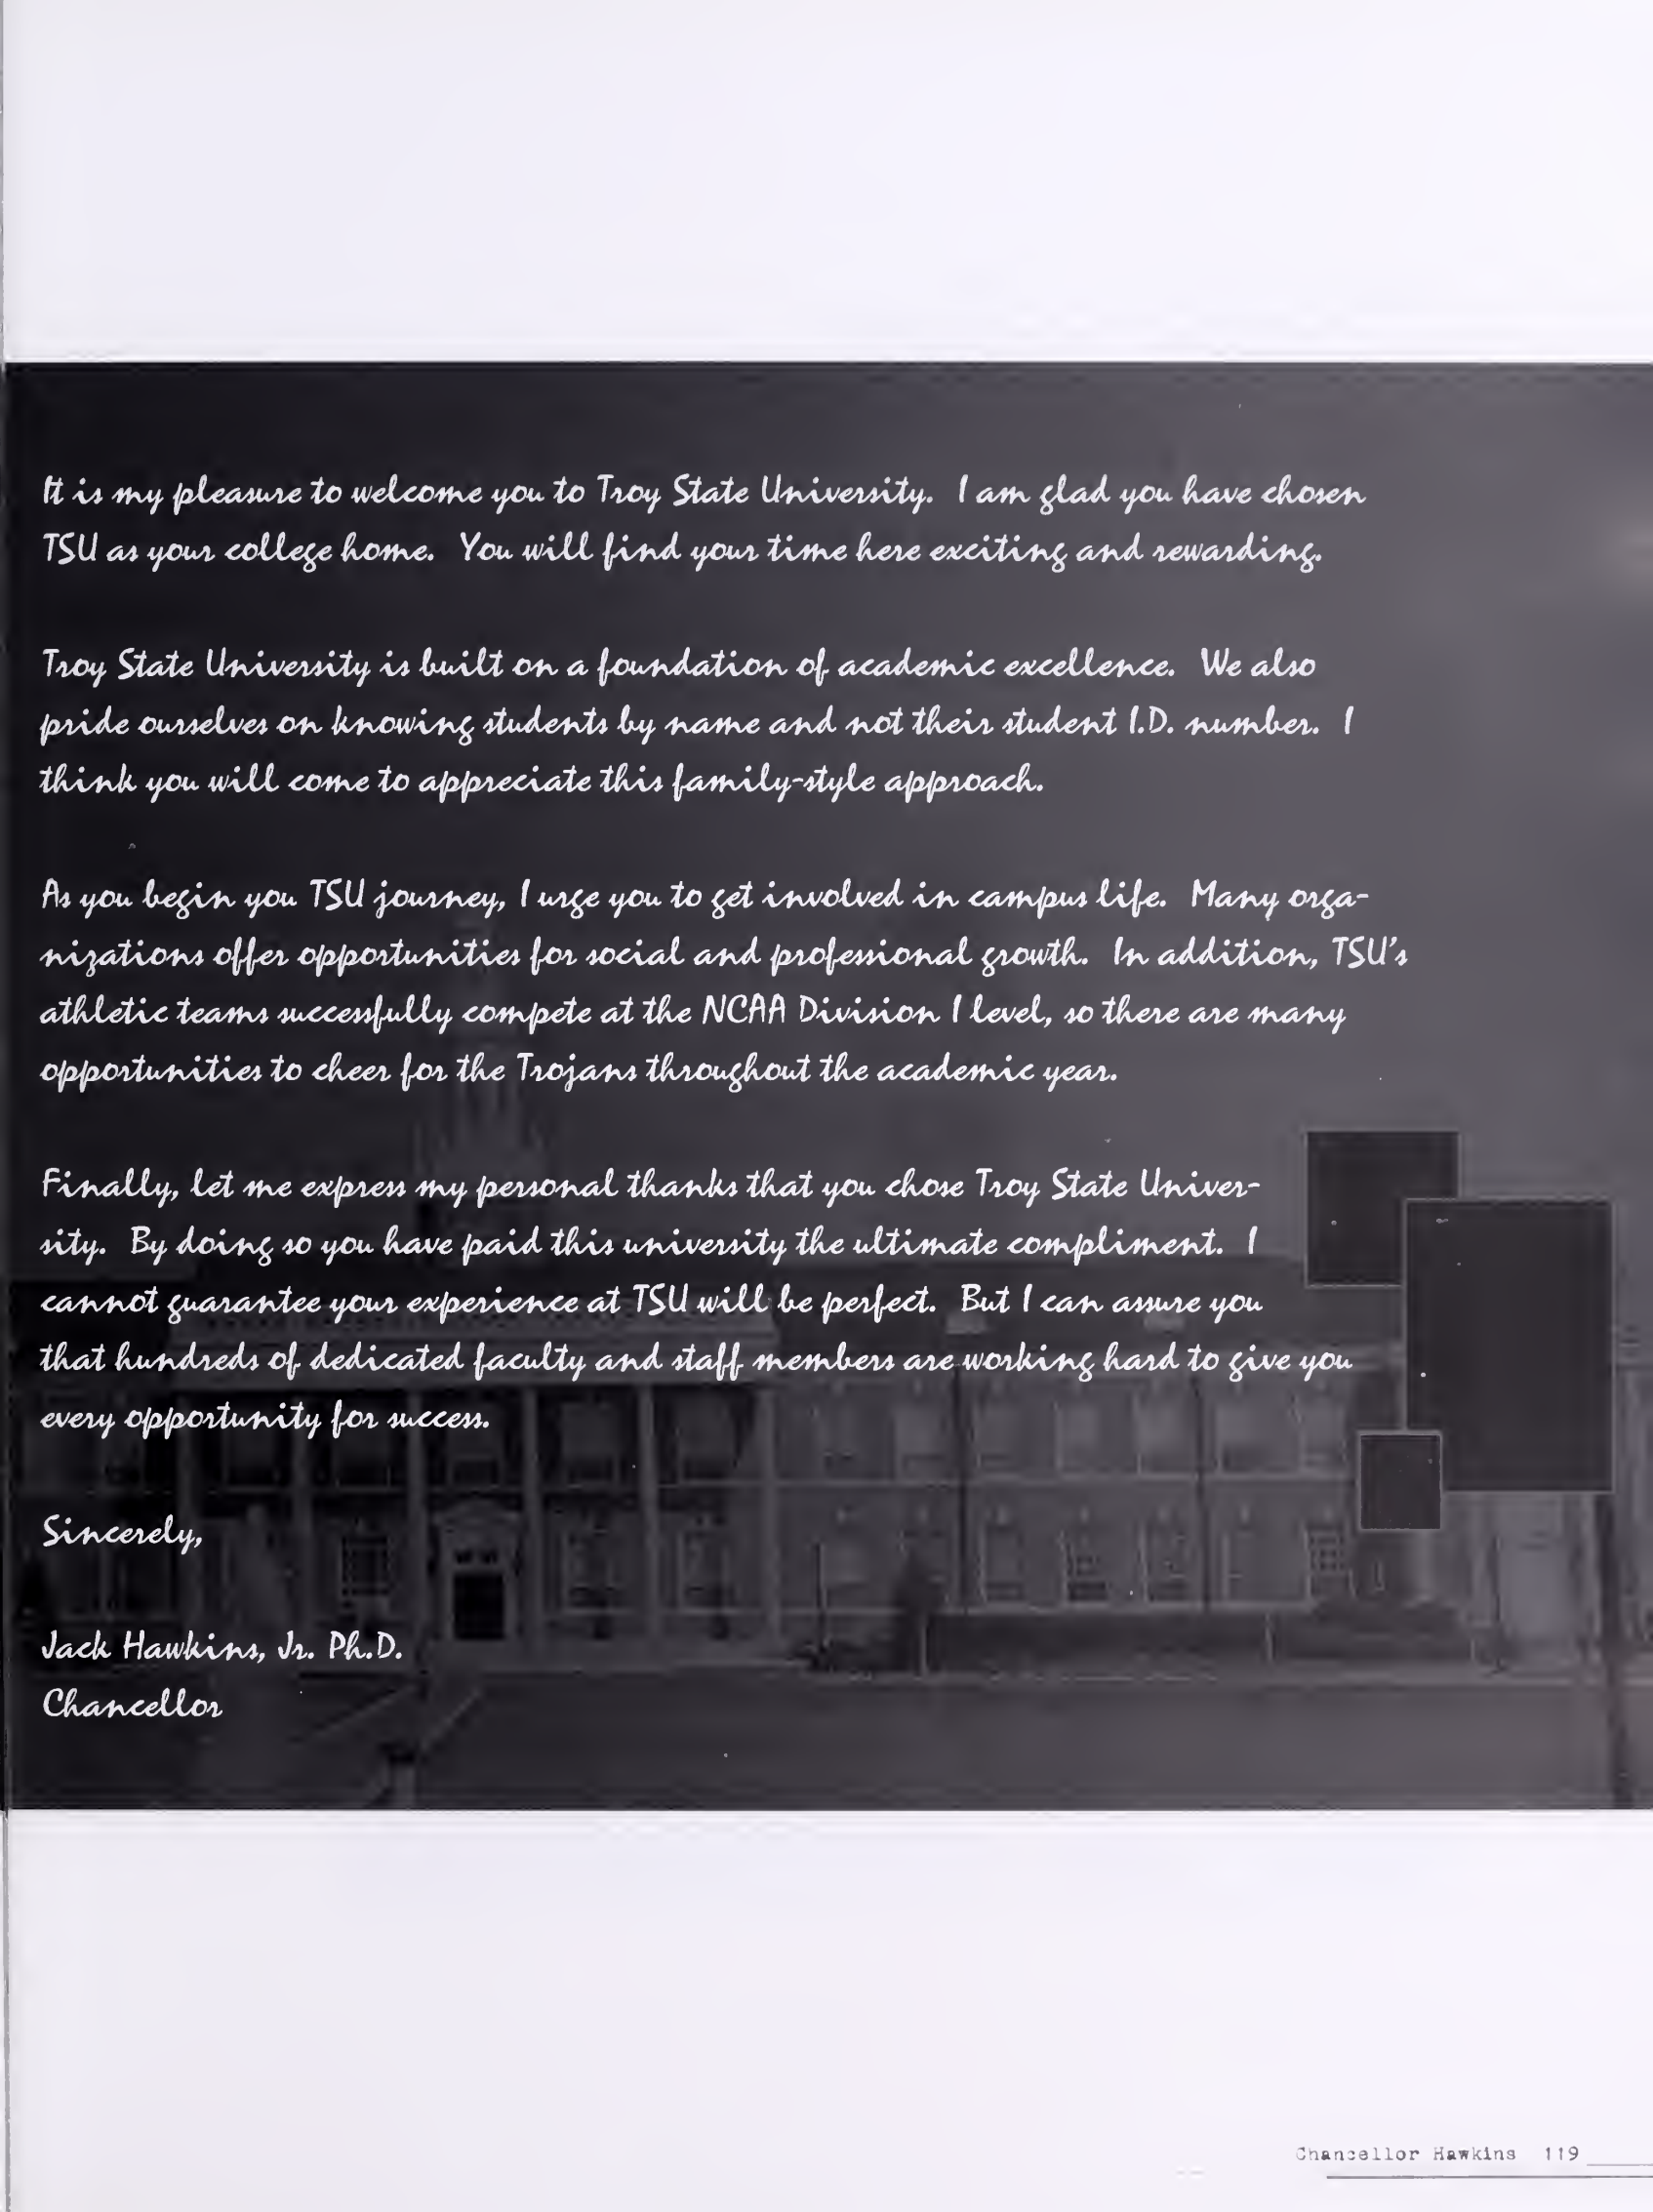

Troy State University has been an innovative institution from its beginning. Starting with a traditional teaching mission in the 19th century, it expanded this mission to include military personnel and their families and then established additional campuses and sites in the 20th century. At the dawn of the 21st century, the TSU System is unique in its role, not just in Alabama, but also in service to the nation and world.

Chancellor

Jack Hawkins, Jr.

Troy State University System

It is my pleasure to welcome you to Troy State University. I am glad you have chosen TSU as your college home. You will find your time here exciting and rewarding.

Troy State University is built on a foundation of academic excellence. We also pride ourselves on knowing students by name and not their student I.D. number. I think you will come to appreciate this family-style approach.

As you begin your TSU journey, I urge you to get involved in campus life. Many organizations offer opportunities for social and professional growth. In addition, TSU's athletic teams successfully compete at the NCAA Division I level, so there are many opportunities to cheer for the Trojans throughout the academic year.

Finally, let me express my personal thanks that you chose Troy State University. By doing so you have paid this university the ultimate compliment. I cannot guarantee your experience at TSU will be perfect. But I can assure you that hundreds of dedicated faculty and staff members are working hard to give you every opportunity for success.

Sincerely,

*Jack Hawkins, Jr. Ph.D.

To promote the importance of the free enterprise system

Students in Free Enterprise also promotes the study and understanding of economics.

Assoc. for Childhood Education Int.

To advance a comprehensive view of childhood education

The Association for Childhood Education International was first established in 1892 in Saratoga Springs, New York.

Currently, there are approximately 1,100 Troy State students living on campus with renovations taking place all the time.

Residence Hall Assoc.

To plan activities for students living in residence halls

The vision of the N.A.A.C.P. is to ensure a society in which all individuals have rights and there is no racial hatred or discrimination.

TSU N.A.A.C.P.

To ensure the equality of rights to all persons

Lions Club

The Lions Club is a service organization that promotes the principles of a good government and citizenship by taking an active interest in the civic, cultural, social and moral welfare of the community.

Environmental Club

Formed in 1990 on Troy State University's campus, this 20 plus member organization is most active in campus clean-ups and Earth Week activities.

National Broadcasting Society

Being the only Troy State organization with a total emphasis on radio and television, these students network with other chapters as well as with media professionals to get firsthand knowledge of the industry.

Advertising/Public Relations Society

This departmental/professional organization's purpose is to get students interested in public relations and advertising. It's members receive opportunities in professional experience, to build portfolios and network throughout their related field of studies.

Archaeology Society

President Monica Norton and her 20 plus classmates promote and spread archaeological knowledge through publications and meetings.

National Association of Black Journalists

The National Association of Black Journalists welcomes students and media related professionals who are interested in quality programs and services to benefit black journalists worldwide.

Accounting Society

The Accounting Society includes students majoring in Accounting and promotes participation in the internal and external activities of the Troy State University Accounting Department.

Student Council for Exceptional Children

The Student Council for Exceptional Children is the student's chapter of the largest professional organization in Special Education with a national total of members reaching over 50,000.

CMENC

Collegiate Music Educators National Convention

Comprised entirely of music education majors, their purpose is to advance music education by encouraging the study of and making of music by all.

Phi Gamma Nu

Placing Emphasis on Business Success

These students receive an overall idea of the business world. Guest speakers introduce dress, resumes, and other do's and don'ts in the business society.

Sigma Alpha Sigma

The Most Involved Community Service Organization

Open to all majors, this group cares most about community involvement. Working with area children, welfare organization participants, and senior citizens carry out the hope these students have.

Troy State Family

The Troy State FAMILY is one with much diversity. The student body is comprised of individuals of all ages--traditional, full-time students as well as other adults who combine their educational pursuits with work, family and other activities. Alumni of TSU live in all 50 states and at least 50 nations worldwide.

There was a popular song within the last few years that talked about a desire to be anything but ordinary. Pain, danger, laughter, extreme measures are things which make us feel alive. They are things that remind us life is an experience we should be having to the fullest. Adrenaline, blood, sweat...remind us of our mortality and the urgency of enjoying our time. Pushing ourselves and our borders to the limits makes life more interesting. It is through the enrichment of our experience, on every level and facet, that we get enough out of life to have lived it. Whoever said life is wasted on the living...let us prove him wrong. Let us be extraordinary people who have extraordinary lives.

"If you look you will see that this world is a beautiful accident turbulent succulent...Don't wanna waste it away...
Is it enough to breathe?
Is it enough to die?"

But read this: do NOT break the law in the name of doing something exciting. There is passion in the details of life, in the mundane. Find that. Then, we will be truly alive and not simply posing as such.

Wouldn't you rather be anything but ordinary, please?

Anything But Ordinary

We come to college to learn.
We come to mature and to prepare for the future.

But somehow
we find the future sooner than we expect it.
The future surprises us along the way.
We find it in something rare.

We find the future in the enjoyment of the small things in life.
Friends. Fun. Even in homework.

This is why higher education exists.
We each find our place in the future of our world in and around the classroom.
We find it among the books and assignments.
We find it with our classmates and comrades.
We find it in the criticism of our teachers.

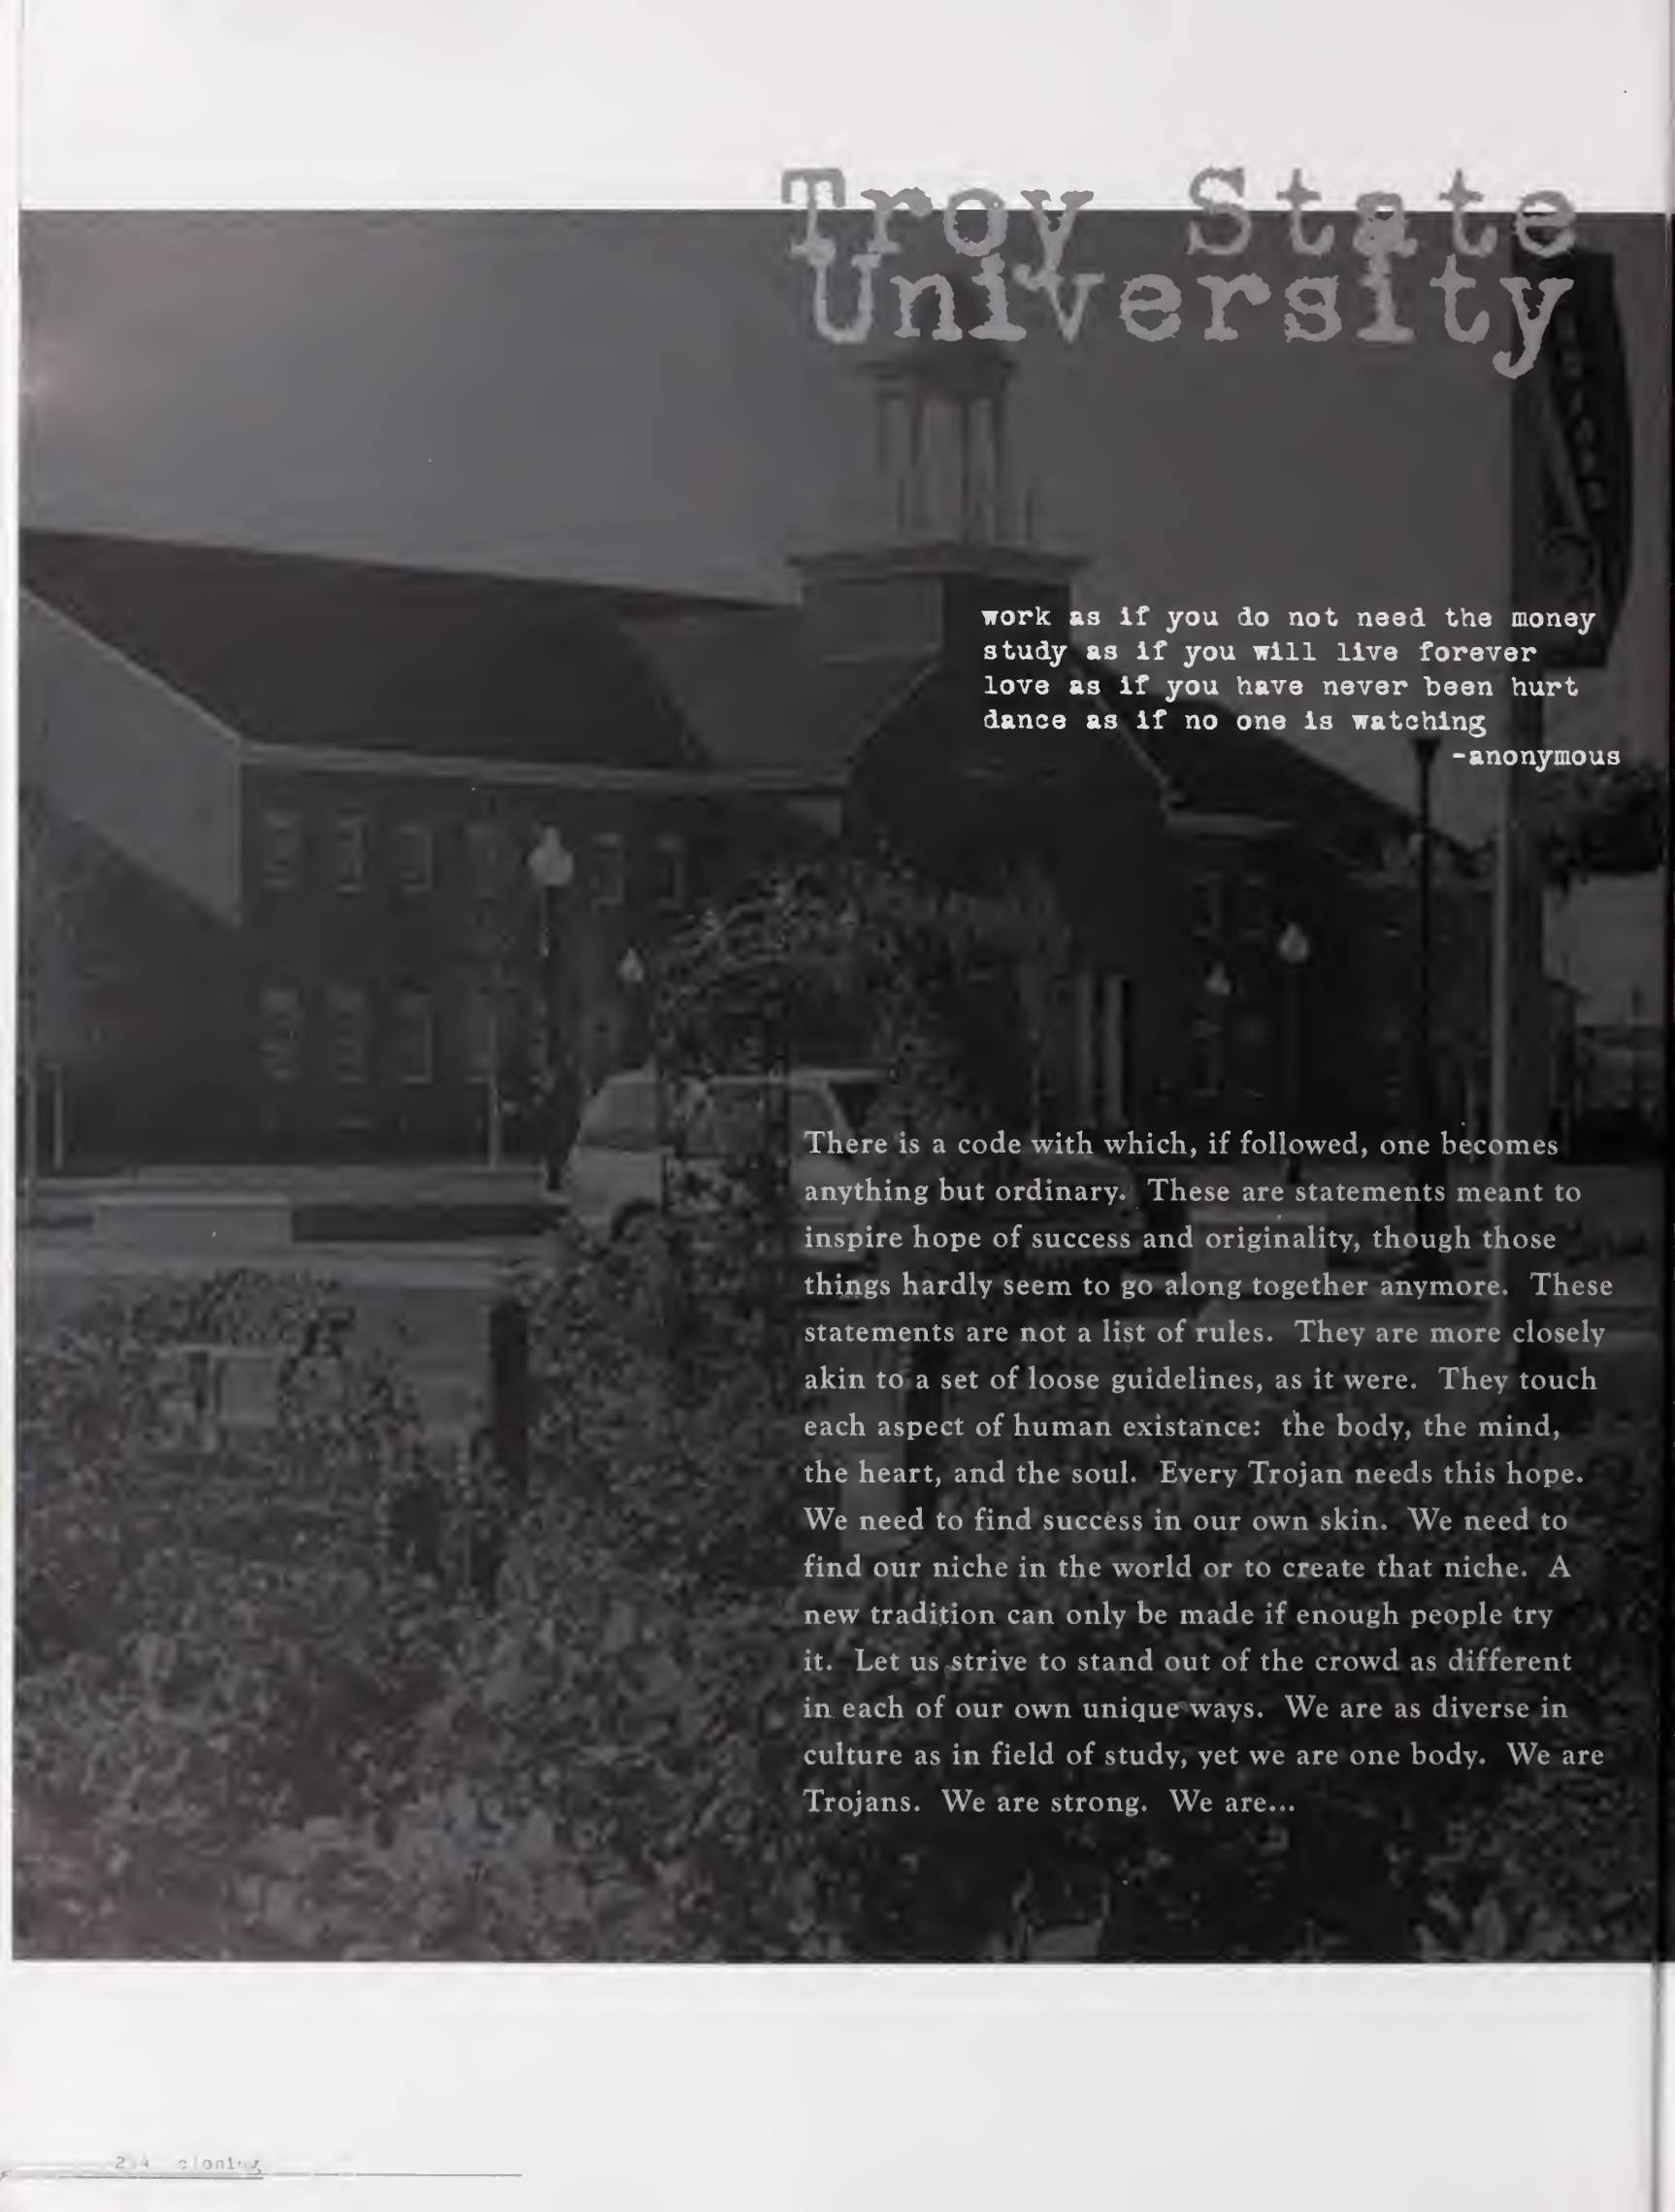

We do not believe in ourselves until someone reveals that what is deep inside us is valuable, worth listening to, worthy of our trust, sacred to our touch. Once we believe in ourselves we can risk curiosity, wonder, spontaneous delight or any experience that reveals the human spirit.

-e. e. cummings

Learning only seems to become more difficult when we are actually getting the most out of the experience. This is the reason why our professors do not complain more but teach us all they can, regardless of everything else. Seeing us, their students, grow and mature, learn to think, and strive for excellence keeps them coming to class every day. And it is through the inspiration we get from our professors believing we can do better that we draw the energy to try even harder.

It is the human spirit.

work as if you do not need the money study as if you will live forever love as if you have never been hurt dance as if no one is watching

There is a code with which, if followed, one becomes anything but ordinary. These are statements meant to inspire hope of success and originality, though those things hardly seem to go along together anymore. These statements are not a list of rules. They are more closely akin to a set of loose guidelines, as it were. They touch each aspect of human existence: the body, the mind, the heart, and the soul. Every Trojan needs this hope. We need to find success in our own skin. We need to find our niche in the world or to create that niche. A new tradition can only be made if enough people try it. Let us strive to stand out of the crowd as different in each of our own unique ways. We are as diverse in culture as in field of study, yet we are one body. We are Trojans. We are strong. We are...

The 2004 Palladium consists of 256 pages that were designed with Adobe InDesign 2.0 using three Macintosh Apple computers. The pages were then delivered to the Herff-Jones plant in Montgomery, Alabama, for final production and printing.

The cover was designed by staff member Stephen Williams, voted on by the other members of the staff, and adapted by the editors. The fonts used on the cover are Myriad and Humanst531BT.

The fonts used in the 2004 Palladium vary slightly from section to section. All body copy is the font Gaudy Handtooled, and all captions are Palladio font. Other major fonts used in this book include Baskerville, Della Robbia, Michael, Symbol, Cassidy, Handel Gothic, Platz, Mistral, Belwe, Hattie, Harold, and others.

Many pictures were taken by staff photographers Lindsey Bruce, David Noble, and Stephen Williams. Some pictures were taken by other staff members. Other pictures used were contributed by organizations and Greek organizations. Several pictures were used from the Tropolitan staff archives and the Troy State University Photography Department. Their assistance was very much appreciated. The individual mug shots in the People section were taken by Cecil De Monbrun of Jim Owen Photography or were taken by the Box Office for Trojan Cards.

The 2004 Palladium was produced at a cost of about $32,000. Expenses were paid by partial student activity fees, yearbook purchases, and pages sold to the Greek organizations and other organizations.

Troy State University's 2004 Palladium, Volume 93, was produced by a student staff consisting of scholarship recipients and volunteers attending Troy State. No portion of this book may be reproduced without the written consent of the Troy State University Publications Board. The views reflected in the 2004 Palladium do not necessarily represent the views of Troy State University.
